Mrs. A. Moselholm Died at Hills, Minn.

and some residents of Redcliff.
For many years

Mrs. Axel Moselholm, who had been a resident of Redcliff for a number of years, passed away at the Hills in Minn. at 12:15, Monday, on account of old age.

Mrs. Moselholm was 70 years of age and had been suffering from a long illness and had been in bed for some time before her death.

Her husband, Axel, died some time ago and she was left alone.

She was a native of Sweden and had been in Redcliff for many years.

Her death was a great loss to the community.

Public Meeting To Be Held Here Next Thursday

Dr. Carlshaw M. P. and Hect of Lang M.L.A. will address a public meeting in City Hall on next Thursday, Jan. 10th.

Redcliff Ladies Weds

A quiet wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McLeod, on Wednesday, Jan. 2nd.

Cold Weather Freezes Up Gas Connection

Mr. Harry Harold had difficulty in getting the gas connection to his house frozen up on Christmas day.

Mr. Rutherford entertained a large party of friends on Christmas Day.

Private Wm. Harvey has returned from France unfit for further service.

School Broken Into On Eve of Holidays

Costumes For Closing Program And Fountain Pens Stolen

One of the most dastardly acts of vandalism occurred last night before the closing of school for Christmas holidays, when some person or persons broke into the school and ransacked the several rooms, leaving the building in a most disgraceful condition.
Doors of pupils and teachers were searched and anything worth carrying away was stolen.
All twenty-four fountain pens were missing, together with numerous trinkets as well as some wearing apparel. But the most distressing of all was a trip containing coats which were to have been used by the pupils in grade six for a little play they were putting on for their closing Christmas program.

To far no clue has been unearthed as to whom the culprits were.

Former Redcliff Man Meets Fatal Accident

William Gray Crushed By Car At Vancouver

Those who knew Wm. Gray, a former student of Redcliff, received quite a shock last week when they heard he had met with a fatal accident in Vancouver. It appears he and his son were taking some friends home in their car arriving at their destination Mr. Gray got out to examine the tires. While at the rear of the car another auto drove up and killed him. The deceased's car was damaged and the driver was injured. Mr. Gray was rushed to the hospital where it was found both legs were broken and the pelvis bone badly shattered.
Although still conscious, the deceased gradually grew weaker from shock and other internal injuries and passed away a few hours later.

The late Wm. Gray was a resident of Redcliff before moving to Vancouver and for a number of years was a painstaking, thorough and efficient caretaker of our school. Mr. Gray relocated him shortly after moving to the coast. Deceased who was 56 years of age, leaves a family of four daughters and three sons all of whom were brought up here and are well known to many by their first names: Jean, Katie, William, Max, Nellie, Mary and John.
To their old friends here, General heart felt sympathy in their loss of a kind and devoted father.

Redcliff Lady Weds Medicine Hat Man

Mellor-McCleary

A quiet wedding took place
at the home of the bride's
parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McLeod,
on Wednesday, Jan. 2nd.

The bride, who was a blue and velvet dress with hat to match and a corsage of tal-lium roses, was attended by Miss Ray Mellor as bridesmaid.
Mr. Sam McCleary supported the groom.

The young couple will be at home to their friends, at 397 Aberdeen street.

Mrs. J. Stratton entertained a number of her friends on Friday afternoon. Miss Margaret Moore won the honors at bridge and Miss Mary Broughton, the consolation. Dainty refreshments were served and a most enjoyable afternoon was had.

Mrs. T. Jones was the hostess at an enjoyable afternoon bridge on Thursday last. Miss Irene Buchholz won the honors and the consolation went to Miss Mary Broughton.

STOCK TAKING

In all well governed institutions, whether they be national, provincial, community or individual, a certain time is set aside each year for taking stock.
This is done, primarily, to find out just where they stand and if conditions are not as they should be, efforts are made to change the leaks and loopholes at that time may be corrected.

At this the beginning of a new year fits, therefore, a good time to do a little community stock taking so far as our own town is concerned.

Throughout this depression which has had the reputation of being one of the most unfavorable towns in Western Canada, the unemployment situation has not been nearly so serious as here as in most other centers, thanks to earnest endeavors of our several industries to keep the wheels in motion and to distribute their labor as fairly as possible. Unfortunately however, general conditions throughout the country, with the word "depression" permeating the very atmosphere we breathe, has created such a state of mind that we as a community are not enjoying to the fullest extent the very fortunate condition which is ours.

There are many reasons which prompt us to make this statement. Community interest, co-operation and social interest, for instance, appear to be lacking. In such places we have street corner criticism, fault finding, back biting and mocking. Criticism is all right in its place but it should be done in the open and at the proper time, so long as it is constructive criticism.

If the usual monthly pay roll which Redcliff is now accompanied by a whole hearted community, co-operative spirit this could be one of the liveliest business towns in the west.

What we were trying to bring out was very nicely summed up by Hon. Irene Parby in her radio recently when she said:

"There is no magic key by which the co-operative principle can be established as the basis of our social order. There is no short cut to the golden age. There must first of all be complete recognition of the supreme problems with which our civilization is faced. There must also be understanding of the fact that change cannot take place except through change in the minds of individuals themselves. What we need today more than anything else, is to open wide the shutters of our minds; to let the sunlight into the dark stuffy corners, to let the clean breezes of heaven sweep away all the fornowens, prejudice and hostility which are cumbering the earth and blocking the progress of our civilization."

Mr. C.G. Buchholz left last week for Estelina S.D. where his father is seriously ill.

A whist drive held under the auspices of the C.O.E. on Monday evening those who won turkeys were Mrs. Newham and Mr. W. Champ.

H. Kitchen Has Leg Broken in Accident

Accident Caused by Heavy Car Driver

Henry was going to his work at the glass plant about 3:30 a.m. when he was run into by a motor cycle driven by Ferdinand Soukup, who was also on his way to work. Henry was thrown to the side of the road and besides breaking his leg was badly shaken up. He managed, however, to crawl back to his home two blocks away, despite the terrific storm which was blowing at the time and when the thermometer was around 14 below.

Henry was taken to the hospital by Dr. Ward where the fracture was attended to. He is now progressing favorably.

Miss Frances Buchholz of Jarvis Vale S.D. is spending her holidays with her parents.

U. F. A. Convention dates have been advanced a week.
The dates are now set for January 15th and 16th and the meeting will be held in Calgary.

The several Christmas trees held in town during the Christmas season were carried out most successfully and brought great joy and amusement to the children.

Mr. Wm. Selhorn is spending the holidays with his mother and sisters here. He returns to Edmonton this week-end to resume his study at the University there.

Quiet Session of Council Last Evening

Christmas Holidays Delayed
The Regular Session

Owing to the Christmas holiday season council met in regular session last evening instead of Monday. All councilors were present with the mayor in the chair.

An account was read from the Medicine Hat Garage for $34.00 for repairs for a car which was damaged by a pipe on Broadway. On motion of councillors Brylle and Myers was referred to solicitor Baird for investigation.

A letter was read from Mr.
Heppburn, a commissioner for the Tully East area, regarding the Texas gate at the east end of town. It was decided to have Mr. Heppburn meet the council at next meeting.

A bill from the C.P.R. for $1.35 for cleaning snow off the railway crossings in town, was submitted. As council questioned its responsibility for same the matter was referred to solicitor Baird.

The usual monthly accounts were approved for payment.

Mr. C.T. Hall called on council as representative of the Pottery plant and asked if some plan could be made whereby taxes owing on the plant building could be extended. Council explained that the best policy at present was to take advan-account at present.

Maedchen Portrays Girl Military School Life

At Monarch Theatre on Friday January 4th only

A direct relationship exists between the national character of a people and their education al system. An appropriate and beautiful demonstration of this action is the film "Maedchen in Uniform." Here, we have a picture which might go far to explain the character of the German military spirit.

"Maedchen in Uniform" is based on the stage play "Yesterday and Today" by Christa Winlock and takes us within the cloistered walls of a finishing school for girls. All the girls are of the same social status, the daughters of Prussian army officers. The principal of the institution believes it to be her highest pedagogic duty to permeate the "goose step spirit" of the fathers into their daughters.

Training In Agriculture

Many Graduates From Farm Club Member To Experienced Agriculturists

An outstanding feature of the training received by Canada's young farmers and farmettes as members of the various Boys' and Girls' Farm Clubs is its pronounced effect on their success in life. All over Canada there are many leading agriculturists who are proud to admit that the foundation of their present comprehensive knowledge of farming was laid while they were members of the boys' and girls' farm clubs of their district.

Several examples of this were to be found recently at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto among the well-known names of the older folk prominent in the executive, advisory, and judging lists, and the good work was also being carried on in a modest way by the younger generation there who had just shed their boys' and girls' club uniforms. For instance, there was Jack Rainbird of Stayner, Ont., who this year won the gold medal standing in judging swine at the inter-county judging competition. Last year he was a member of the Stayner Swine Club team. Clifford Heston of Barrie, Ont., winner this year of the Bluebonnet Memorial Trophy and gold medal in the judging of Dairy Cattle, is a former member of a Boys' Farm Club, at one time he was one of the most active members of the Barrie Agribus and better club, and in 1938, with two other boys represented Ontario in the International Dairy Judging Competition, held in England. And so on it goes, in all the provinces the young farm club members later graduates into the highly efficient farmer of Canada.

Elder-Down Industry

Work Of Department Of The Interior Protecting Elder Duck Preserves New Source Of Revenue

The Honourable Thomas G. Murphy, minister of interior, has pointed out that through the protection afforded to elder ducks by the Migratory Birds Convention Act and the encouragement given by officers of his department, a new source of revenue has been provided. Inhabitant of the elder duck nesting grounds in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and more northern parts of the Dominion. Thousands of elder duck nest on the rocky shores and islands of the Gulf of St. Lawrence and northward, while a few scattered breeding pairs are also to be found farther north, and from these areas there is now being produced a considerable supply of elder-down which is much in demand in commerce.

The work of developing the elder-down industry was begun as a measure of protection for the elder duck by impressing on the inhabitants the benefits to be gained by protecting the birds and adopting modern methods in the collection of the down. Thus a valuable source of revenue is being developed with direct monetary returns to the local residents.

It is estimated that each nest yields slightly over an ounce of down per season. The mother bird plucks the down from her breast to cover the eggs in the nest and the practice of the collector is to remove only a portion of this down so as not to injure the eggs or disturb the sitting bird. The down is then put through a special cleaning process before it is sold to the trade.

The collection of elder-down is carried on under special permit from the Department, and is a non-permanent living in areas where the elder duck nests can secure full information on the subject by applying to the Commissioner, National Park of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Drought in Canada will be a steady decreasing possibility until 1939. In which year there may be too much rain, according to Sir James Jeans British scientist and astronomer, who claims the greater the number of sunspots, the greater the rainfall. Sun-spots increase and decrease in numbers in cycles of years, he points out.

ROYAL BRIDE POSES IN HER WEDDING GOWN

The charming Princess Marina of Greece is shown in this exclusive photograph, posed in her bridal gown for her marriage to the Duke of Kent, youngest son of King George and Queen Mary, at Westminster Abbey. The gown, created by Molyneux, noted designer, shows to even greater advantage the beauty of the Grecian princess. It is of silver and white lace in English rose pattern, with long bell-sleeves. The bride is wearing long tulle catenae from the diamond-studded tiara and a priceless diamond necklace. Photo Copyright, Harry J. Ransar, made by Mirron.

Sterilizing Milk Cans

Hypochlorite Method Cheaper And Equally Effective As Steam

In the progress report of the Dominion Agricultural Experiment Station for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933, reference is made to the sterilization of milk cans and bottles by steam and chlorine solutions methods. Steam under pressure, which is generally conceded to be the ideal means of sterilizing dairy utensils, is employed at the Central Experimental Farm Dairy, Ottawa. In view of the increasing use of chlorine solutions as sterilizing rinses, says the report, an opportunity was taken to compare the efficiency of this method with that of steam sterilization. Starting August 2, 1932, treatment with a hypochlorite solution was alternated with steam sterilization (5 pounds pressure for 30 or 30 minutes).

The result of the analysis of 141 cans and 145 bottles showed the hypochlorite to be somewhat less effective than steam under pressure, the difference being more marked with bottles than with cans. When, however, it is realized that the bacterial contamination of milk on filling the word can would be 122 per cent. centimetre and from the worst bottle 160, the differences are seen to be relatively insignificant. Against this must be set the convenience and cheapness of the hypochlorite method and the greater comfort of the milk working in the washroom, the temperature averaging over 7 degrees Fahrenheit higher when steam was used. It should also be noted that in all these tests, the preparations of the solutions and the treatment of the utensils and bottles were carried out by non-technical help without any direct supervision, so that equally good results should be obtained by any intelligent operator.

Place To Catch Him

The victim called at Mr. Jackson's house and asked the butler if he could see his master. "I'm afraid he's not down yet," replied the butler. "The master began to lose his patience. "Yet, yet," he exclaimed. "Yesterday you say I named you him because he is not up. Today you say I cannot see him because he is not down. When, oh, when will he be in the middle?"

Protein Fertilize To Eat

In the belief that the proposed "single gasoline tax" would keep tourists from the Universal Exposition at Brussels next year, the Belgian Minister of Finance has refused to sanction it. The tax, copied after that of France, would replace all other motor-vehicle taxes. The minister holds that it would mean an increase of about 34 cents a gallon in the price of gasoline.

No Cat Flowers Allowed

Old Custom Forbids Their Use In Westminster Abbey

A recent article from Europe on the royal wedding mentioned that the lilies decorating the altar in Westminster Abbey were the smallest item in the flower bill for the marriage. No cat flowers are allowed in the Abbey, according to an old custom and so only two silver vases were used, in spite of the fact that the Abbey authorities were prepared to set aside the ancient custom. King George never wants to be the first in breaking a precedent. Not long ago His Majesty visited St. Paul's church. The master of the school in receiving the King, excused himself for keeping his hat on, saying: "In this church there is an old custom that everybody uncovers except the master in order to show his supreme authority." King George immediately took his hat off, saying: "That goes two for me then. It is a good rule! And the boys should see that your authority by far exceeds that of the King in this school!"

So with the cat flowers in the Abbey. The King immediately accepted the strange medieval ruling, the origin of which is wrapped in the mists of time. The floral supplies were divided over a number of famous London shops, all personally selected by the Queen.

"No two people in the world think exactly alike. "Get engaged to be married and cast your eye over your wedding program!"

An Ancient Timepiece

Grandfather Clock In Moose Jaw Sold To Be 365 Years Old

Ticking away the minutes just as smoothly as it did away back in 1669, a stately old grandfather's clock in Moose Jaw ticks back to the famous clock in London, which is the oldest clock in Canada. The old timepiece, a clock of old English design made in mahogany and inlaid with ivory, is owned by Christopher Burdon. It is more than a century older than his ancestor's mate in the Dockyard building in the Nova Scotia city that was made in 1767.

The ancient Burdon chronometer runs as smoothly in 1934 as it did when Mr. Burdon received it from his grandfather in Carlton, county Durham, England, 66 years ago. It has been in Canada 25 years. If Halifax would still claim to have the oldest clock in the Dominion, Mr. Burdon believes it will have to share a timespace more than 70 years old for his clock has set a new high in clock age for Canada. It was fabulously telling time for Mr. Burdon before there was any thought of Moose Jaw.

Canadian cattle hides exported to Japan are wet and salted, similar to those from the United States, and the pork exports from China consist chiefly of sun-dried codfish, weighing from six to forty pounds.

The number of Canadian live cattle exported to Great Britain in 1934 up to November 15, was 47,785, compared with 46,612 in the corresponding period of 1933.

Pat Buses In Oxford

English Motor Magnate Tells How It Was Done

Lord Nuffield, the English motor magnate, revealed a "right" he had with the Oxford city council when they wanted to start trams in Oxford in 1913.

"I applied for a license to run buses in Oxford," he said. "I did not even get a reply."

"I bought motor-buses and arranged that they should arrive in Oxford after dark. Within an hour of the buses' starting there was a detective on every one taking the driver's names and addresses!"

"The only way I could obviate going to jail was by taking no money. Accordingly I arranged that shops on the routes should sell coupons saying they utilized the bus to ride on a motor-bus."

"The city council engaged two constable K.C.'s who advised locking me up."

"However, the whole of the population wanted motor-buses and after three months the council themselves decided to put them on."

"I called the drivers together and asked them to have twice the number of buses they have. Now remember—on in front and one behind all the time."

"The consequence was the council buses never got a passenger. Eventually they made an offer for fire of shavings inside the hogshead the oldest clock in Canada."

"I had not told them now that they had not made that offer I would have been 'out'!"—London Daily Mirror.

Passed "Ordeal By Fire"

Cooper Ship Ceremony Still Carried On In England

"Ordeal by fire" is a ceremony which dates back to the Middle Ages, and it still is carried out in the United Kingdom. A young cooper, freshly shaven, is taken to the cooperage at Watney's Mortlake Brewery, London, went through the ordeal by fire when passing out of the cooperage in accordance with the traditional rite, and it was no fun for Herbert.

At the boy was finishing a 24-gallon hogshead the other hands gathered round the incomplete barrel for the time-honored ritual. They lit a fire of shavings inside the hogshead to make the wood pliable enough to receive the hoops.

Herbert was hoisted into the barrel, on to the fire itself it—the last painful rite of his apprenticeship. As the coopers hammered down the hoops and danced around cheering.

To ensure that the youth was not badly burnt, his fellow craftsmen poured water in to damp the fire—but somehow, much of the water fell on the young cooper's head.

Gill comes of a long family of coopers. His father was a cooper for 30 years and so were his father and grandfather.

Not Really Essential

Other Vegetables Contain All Constituents Found In Spinach

Dr. Walter H. Pridy of God House, says the need of spinach is a myth. It is in his good content of iron, its alkali-forming mineral and its vitamins A, B, and C content. All these elements, however, are present in other vegetables. Naturally no two green vegetables are exactly alike in composition, but there is an advantage in this fact in that it provides release from monotony. Try serving some of the other green vegetables to your children and find out what they like; then you can gauge the amounts of them to provide the same range of which you are using spinach.

Planning World Garden

Japanese Red Cross Society Seeks Out Request For Plants

Osaka, Japan, is to have a garden composed of the choicest plants of the universe. Dr. M. Mayeda, director of the new Japanese Red Cross hospital, has asked every Red Cross Society in the world to send him plants, seeds, or shrubs for the hospital garden, which efficiently they may bear witness that citizens of some 60 countries work for the good of mankind. The Red Cross Societies have passed on Dr. Mayeda's request to their junior members, and the children of each country are trying to select a plant or flower emblematic of their people, yet suitable to the Osaka climate.

Jimmu Tenno was the first ruler of Japan and the reputed founder of the line of emperors that has continued to the present time. Modern milk makers can milk from 1,000 to 1,500 heads daily.

Legible Handwriting

One Subject That Seems New To Be

For some time past there has been discussion without end regarding the Ontario educational system. What should be taught and what should not.

If the educational system is to be changed—and there is no doubt that it should—there is a small question for change—might we offer the humble suggestion that writing be given its old time place in the course of studies provided for both public and secondary schools.

A short time ago the Chatham News, in an editorial, said: "The other day this paper received a document signed by sixty editors of the United States. It was an excellent document intended to stimulate thinking in a troubled time, but after looking at the signatures and trying to figure them out, we are almost forced to the conclusion that what is needed is a stimulation of penmanship, rather than thinking." And that is the truth. Out of the countless contributions that reach a newspaper, in the course of a year, there are not two out of a hundred because of the clarity of the handwriting can be read offhand at a glance.

As a matter of fact the older the contributor, the more legible is the handwriting likely to be, and the greater the number of the handwriting is a troublesome thing, but after looking at the signatures and trying to figure them out, we are almost forced to the conclusion that what is needed is a stimulation of penmanship, rather than thinking."

It is that way because the older people, generally, are more educated, and we understand that term today, did receive a grounding in at least one subject that has left its mark through life.

One subject thoroughly mastered in youth may be a small thing of many. We would like to have writing again taught in the schools as it used to be taught, because now it is not. It is a shame that the lack of penmanship is one of the worst penmanship, rather than of the best—Chicago Tribune.

Money in Frog Farm

Two Women Started With Capital Of Fifty Dollars

Undertaken by the aquanauts, pond-keepers most women have, two social matrons of British Tennessee made a commercial success of breeding bullfrogs.

Miss Francis Wells and Mrs. Mildred King, wives of British business men, personally attend to the duties of Welking Frog Farm. They kill the marketable frogs, skin them, transfer the eggs to developing pans, care for the tadpoles, and, short, raise from an egg the deep-bodied frog which becomes a valuable young cooper's head.

Gill comes of a long family of coopers. His father was a cooper for 30 years and so were his father and grandfather.

With an initial capital of $50, the two women started the frog farm there, and have now made $100,000 from their husbands. Now, the feminine partners annually set a new record for the number of eggs they export enough in the field to give free courses in frog breeding to persons who buy freedom from the law.

"An unbecomingly and ugly venture? I should say it isn't," Mrs. Wells smiled. The first waves ripples of spring lilies in the deep below the bottom of the bottom—his mating call."

The Working Farmer, in the face of contrary scientific assertions, claim the female frog voices her love in a high romantic trill.

Forests Of The Sea

Unmanned Jungles Of Vegetation Discovered Beneath Waves

Trunks of seaweed several inches in circumference, with branches and leaves like a tree, were discovered recently by a hotelier in the Antarctic. It remains to be proved whether they can be used as firewood. Unmanned jungles of vegetation lie beneath the waves. Dr. William H. Bates, the marine explorer, plunged a real forest of seaweed when, investigating in his bathysphere, the continental shelf off the coast of Chile. Some of the stems towered to a height of 600 feet, three inches higher than the world's tallest tree.

Plan Is Abandoned

The idea of using an autogyro for mail shipments over London has been abandoned owing to dangers both to the mail and to pedestrians. It had been planned to have the autogyro take foreign mail directly to Croydon aerodrome, picking up a return batch and dropping it onto the central postoffice road. Experiments showed both the mail and pedestrians might be endangered by the dumping of packages should the air be blown.

An adverse trade balance of nearly $100,000,000 for the year ended October 31, was revealed by the United States trade statistics. As in recent years much of the adverse balance is attributed to the deficit in the United Kingdom since the advent of the Republican government to power.

Japan Plans Airline Link

Mandated Islands Are To Be Linked With Mainland

Japan is preparing to open another thousands of miles of airways to fasten her Pacific Island possessions and mandates more firmly to the homeland.

Two naval aviators who sailed recently from Yokohama are now surveying the route between Saipan and Palau, using a seaplane of 1,200 miles cruising-radius. Their arrival was prepared for by establishment of meteorological observatories and wireless stations at Saipan, Palau and Truk.

The Japanese hope to link this island service with Japan proper in an air-service from Tokyo to Saipan, by way of the Shantung Islands. An appropriation to subsidize this new route was contained in the Government's 1935-36 budget just completed.

The Tokyo-Bonin Islands line will be the first link of a projected air-line to join the imperial capital with its farthest flung mandate, one-third of the way across the Pacific, lying directly ahead of the projected American air routes of relays wandering uncontrolled from one country to the other.

Longest Fines In World
The world's longest fines—40 kilometers, or about 250 miles—have been decreed along the Norwegian-Finnish border to prevent the Finnish Lapland army bands of reindeer wandering uncontrolled from one country to the other.

Should Take Precautions

From Kansas Comes A Warning About "The Twin Ports" To Farm Children

In a letter just received from Independence, Kansas, Mr. A. Z. Potter says that having been raised on a farm he has first hand knowledge of the sad deaths of a good many children caused by the carelessness of their elders. Every parent should take heed to this warning—offered in a friendly spirit by our correspondent from Kansas. View it as:

"The Twin ports for children living on farms and in small villages are open wells and cisterns and loose boards left with nail points sticking out of them."

"Cover all wells and cisterns and remove all nail points from loose boards because a child stepping on them, whether clean or rusted, is in deadly danger from the germs of Tetanus (lockjaw) with which much danger is infected."

partly to his desire to have more leisure for periods abroad, but principally to his policy of gradually transferring his direct responsibilities to younger executives.

Morris W. Wilson, the new President and Managing Director of the Royal Bank, was formerly Vice-President and Chairman of the Board of the bank in July 1929, and in 1931 became Vice-President as well.

These changes were announced at the end of the bank's fiscal year, following a regular meeting of the board. They are changes which constitute not only an important milestone in the 60 years of Royal Bank history, but also an event of national significance.

Aim Of French Aviator

Linking New York To Paris In Fifteen Hours

Louis Bleriot, who twenty-five years ago was the first to fly across the English Channel, told at Paris of his dream of the aviation of the future when Paris and New York will be linked by air in fifteen hours.

The air pioneer was guest of honor at a luncheon meeting of the American Club of Paris, where his great exploit was commemorated.

"My dream," he said, "would be to throw an aerial bridge between Paris and New York such as I did twenty-five years ago between England and France. Concerning the realization of this dream, it is one of your countrymen, it seems to me who has best studied that question."

From the look of things it should not take more than fifteen or eighteen hours to link the two capitals.

"The floating islands as established by one of your firms would be 600 meters long, 100 meters wide and 40 meters deep. Their security is so great that insurance companies have volunteered to give rewards to anyone who could improve them."

From the financial standpoint passenger traffic can be expected to yield 80 million francs and air mail traffic 100 million, 160 millions in all ($8,000,000).

Understands Wild Animals

Trainer Succeeds In Raising Leopard Cubs In Zoo

Hans Brink, animal trainer at the Berlin Zoo at Chausseestraße, Germany, is the only man who has successfully raised leopard cubs in Britain.

Usually a leopard will eat its young if they have been touched, or even seen, by a human being.

Mr. Hans Brink, has much power over animals that Babel, a leopard at the zoo who two months ago gave birth to two cubs, allows him to enter her cage and play with them. She will even put them in his lap.

The London Zoological Society has congratulated him on his success in raising the cubs.

He has spent 15 years in the jungles of the world, mostly by himself, studying the habits of lions, tigers, panthers, leopards, and snakes.

Never during that time did he find it necessary to shoot. His experience and understanding were such that he was even able to "talk" to the animals—without uttering a single word. They understood him, accepted him, and no harm came to him.

Recipes For This Week

(By Betty Barclay)

ALL-BEAN DATE BARS

2 eggs
2 cup nuts (chopped)
1 1/2 cups brown sugar 1/2 cup dates (cut fine) 1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder 1/4 cup lard

Beat the egg well, add the sugar and beat well. Add the flour, nuts and dates, spread the mixture in a greased shallow pan. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for about 20-30 minutes. Remove from the oven and while warm, cut into squares or bars. Roll the pieces in powdered sugar or nuts as a padding with whipped cream. Yield: 24 bars—1-1/2 inches.

NOVELTY CUSTARD

2 eggs, slightly beaten 1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Combine eggs, sugar and salt. Add milk gradually, mixing thoroughly; then add vanilla. Put 1 tablespoon Custard in each custard cup fill with custard mixture. Place cups in pan of hot water. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) for 40 to 45 minutes. Remove from the oven and while warm, cut into squares or bars. Roll the pieces in powdered sugar or nuts as a padding with whipped cream. Yield: 24 bars—1-1/2 inches.

End Of Great Navy

Last Of Big German Battleships Being Broken Up

While the naval discussions in America are seemingly futile in regard to limitation, the end of what was once the second most powerful navy afloat is being accomplished at the Bremer British naval dockyard known as Rosyth, just beyond the Forth bridge.

There the wartime German navy is being dismantled and broken up under the molting qualities of scythes and torches and the hammer blows of hydraulic tools.

Wrecked by pre-arranged signal against their surrendered ship at Rosyth they thought that was the end of their navy. Probably they thought the job of raising an entire navy was too big to attempt.

There were 12 battle cruisers, and now at Rosyth there are about $200,000,000. But the salvaging job was done, although it took fourteen years to do it.

And now at Rosyth these huge, proud German warships are being tossed into pile-drivers. Several hundred thousand tons of iron, brass and bronze are being cut out of them until there is nothing left resembling a ship. The common grade of steel is being melted down to make rails, which are being shipped all over the world. Much of the better grade is being sold to the United States manufacturers. The highest grade of oil, that which was armored, is being sold to the United States.

It is, in fact, has been resold to Germany, where it may even reappear in the retail gasoline stations of the United States. The brass from the heavy propellers and gun fittings is sold to other propeller makers, bell makers and other users of bronze.

Thus the end of a great navy—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Mandate Against Quakes

Chinese Police Give Authority To Enforce Order

The recent order issued by Nanking to the wearing of caps and the custom of binding the feet of children must be discontinued immediately has been finally taken to the Chinese authorities of Shantung province, according to a return received in Shanghai from missionaries in that region.

All police officers, especially those stationed at the gates of the city have been armed with orders and orders have been issued to the effect that if the mandate against the wearing of quakes is not voluntarily complied with, the police have the right to use force to enforce it. In several cases, the police have not given the offender a chance to dispose of his queue himself, but have simply ordered the cutting of it with practically no ceremony whatever.

The order against foot-binding also states that women under the age of 30 whose feet have been bound must take off the wrappings and allow their feet to develop naturally. This part of the order has been practically disregarded in the country districts.
